Dear Peter,

Thanks for your email and your time on this matter.

We have not had sight of Topmarx's quotation where the figure of circa £6,000 came from and I am personally very surprised by the significant difference between your quote and theirs. Our other builders quote came in below this figure but it did not include many of the works specified.

My request to see Topmarx's quote was refused so we are therefore asking insurers to provide detailed confirmation that everything specified in the unpriced specification is provided for as well as confirmation that the walls have their plaster taken off to a minimum height of 1m. * Insurer's specification as far as I can see has no requirement for plaster coming off to a certain height. Andy has been told they have agreed to 1m but I just wondered where you saw the figure of 1.5m which is stated in your email?*

I would have much preferred a builder that we found to be appointed but as you will appreciate the influence we have is constrained to ensuring that any work they do meets the minimum standards. We will be watching these works like a hawk you can be sure of that!

As you correctly stated in your opening email the damp was far more serious than outlined in the initial surveyors report. Insurers were advised by their Bio response team to carry out the works swiftly in order to mitigate their loss. They have failed to do so and the prospect of secondary damage to the whole of the upstairs is now very real.

Nicholas
