Subject: Bio response list of items stored

Dear Andy,

I've reviewed the list and photos provided by BioResponse, and frankly, it's beyond belief. What they've sent represents only a fraction of the contents they removed and stored — and the presentation itself is wholly inadequate.

This, unfortunately, comes as no surprise. Our experience with BioResponse — who have also been entrusted with the Biosanitisation and Drying of our Home — has been marked by extraordinary incompetence, delay, and a complete lack of professionalism. They have repeatedly dropped the ball, showing a level of disorganisation and tardiness that is entirely unacceptable.

To be candid, this latest episode has genuinely shaken me. I already feel deeply disheartened by the way this entire process has been handled — by the insurers and their contractors alike — and this is simply emblematic of the kind of nonsense we've had to endure from the very beginning. It is exhausting and profoundly disappointing.

I would ask that this matter be raised immediately and that we are provided with a clear explanation of how such standards are being tolerated.

Best regards,

Nicholas Scarr

Hi Louisa,

I did wonder if this was incomplete, as I recall Nick mentioning a clock which I couldn't see on the lists.

I got the list from a claims handler, not the Loss Adjuster, so I will ask if this is the complete list.

Best Regards

Andy Lyne

Good morning Nick,

I hope you're well.

Please find attached a list of items Bio Response advise are being stored.

I have also received the following email from Leo, the new Loss Adjuster:

"Good morning, Andy

The definitive BER list is still in question, given the PH’s vulnerability and contamination.

The best thing would be to contact Bio Response directly 03332026416 – you can discuss access etc directly.

The claim has been referred to our major and complex loss team as it will exceed £100k.

They will be in contact shortly."

Best Regards
