Good Afternoon,

Thank you for your email.

As per your conversation with my colleague, the automatically renewed policy will be cancelled back to the start and if any payments have been taken these

In terms of your original policy that has now expired, we will be cancelling the expired policy back to 03.07.25 and no refund will be provided, this is becaus any liability for this claim.

With this being said, Sainsbury's will need to contact us directly for 50% contribution to the claim that you made.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Kind regards,

Chlio

As you will see, they are suggesting that your team at Sainsbury's Home Insurance contact them directly with a view to receiving a 50% contribution towards the cost of the claim.

I'm very mindful of the time this is all taking — the claim has now been ongoing for nearly five months and reinstatement work has yet to begin. While it is, of course, entirely reasonable will not result in any further unnecessary or protracted delays.

If you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to let me know.

Kind regards,
Nicholas Scarr
