Dear Jinty,

Re: Request for written confirmation

I understand that your client has instructed you to close your file in relation to this matter.

For the avoidance of doubt, this was not a fabricated or unsubstantiated dispute. A valid set-off was properly applied, and there were proper grounds for the position taken by Quantlogic Global Ltd in relation to the sums claimed.

In those circumstances, I should be grateful if you would confirm in writing that no adverse information has been registered, recorded, reported or shared in relation to this matter against Quantlogic Global Ltd, nor against me personally, Nicholas Scarr, whether as director or otherwise. Please also confirm that no such adverse information will be registered, recorded, reported or shared in future in connection with this matter.

I look forward to receiving your written confirmation as soon as possible.

Yours faithfully,

Nicholas Scarr

Dear Ms Arthur,

We note your email.

The account remains formally disputed and is under review directly with your client.

Your continued escalation and assertions of inevitable judgment are inappropriate while a genuine dispute exists. Should proceedings be issued, the claim will be defended in full.

We consider further pressure communications unnecessary pending the outcome of principal-level discussions.

Yours sincerely,

Nicholas Scarr

Nicholas,

As I am sure you are fully aware we take our clients instructions, not yours, therefore, the account will not be placed on a hold.

Your dispute is not valid, and no evidence of any dispute has ever been provided, therefore, we will proceed with our client's instructions.

Just to reiterate, all documentation has been provided to support the debt, invoices, statement of account, and the signed contract. By signing the contract your company has entered into a legally binding contract with our client and the balance is rightfully owed. As stated previously, if you did not agree with the terms and conditions, you should not have signed the contract.

The file has been registered on Debt Register and your details have been shared with 'Dun & Bradstreet' and their global credit reporting partners.

In addition to this my legal director has instructed me that I am to escalate the file to our solicitors if immediate payment for $7,061.16 is not paid. Our solicitors will commence with formal legal action against the business, and this will result in a CCJ being obtained. The CCJ will remain on your business credit file for 6 years and will not be updated unless the total is paid.

I trust this clarifies our position.

Subject: Re: FR-00245-0000100 – Disputed Account / Set-Off Asserted

Dear Ms Arthur,

We refer to your recent correspondence.

The alleged balance remains formally disputed.

The matter has now been formally raised directly with your client at principal level for review and reconciliation of the underlying account position. That process has been initiated and is ongoing.

In circumstances where a genuine dispute exists and set-off has been asserted, the balance cannot properly be characterised as an undisputed debt.

Your continued threats of escalation, enforcement action and adverse credit reporting are therefore inappropriate and premature.

For the avoidance of doubt:

- The balance is not agreed.

- The account is subject to reconciliation.

- No final sum can properly be treated as conclusively due until the net position has been determined.

You will appreciate that reporting a disputed balance to credit reference agencies, or otherwise representing it as undisputed, engages obligations relating to accuracy of data and fair processing. It is essential that any third-party reporting accurately reflects the existence of a formal dispute.

You are therefore required to place this file on immediate hold and to cease further escalation pending resolution between the parties at principal level.

We trust that no further enforcement steps will be taken while the dispute remains active.

Yours sincerely,

Nicholas Scarr

Subject: Re: FR-00245-0000100 – Disputed Account / Set-Off Asserted

Dear Ms Arthur,

Thank you for your email.

For the avoidance of doubt, the alleged balance in respect of invoice FR-00245-0000100 remains formally disputed.

Your suggestion that our set-off position is irrelevant is rejected. This matter arises from a longstanding commercial relationship and involves mutual dealings and reciprocal obligations. Your client has an outstanding unpaid invoice owed to us, which we have set off against the amount now being claimed. Accordingly, no undisputed balance exists.

Further, any claim for interest is expressly denied. Interest is not properly recoverable on a disputed account and, in any event, cannot be treated as “automatic” until the net balance (if any) has been established following reconciliation.

It is also material that your client has continued to make payments to us recently, which is inconsistent with the suggestion that the account has been treated internally as an undisputed overdue debt accruing interest.

Given the historic nature of this matter and the absence of consistent enforcement over several years, your demand for immediate payment within hours is wholly unreasonable and inappropriate. Reasonable time is required to review the full contractual and accounting history, including the wider account position between the parties.

We will revert with a substantive response within 30 days.

In the meantime, you are required to place this matter on hold and refrain from further escalation or any form of third-party reporting while the dispute remains unresolved.

Yours sincerely,

Nicholas Scarr

Sir/Madam,

Following on from our call dated 11/02/2026.

Please find the attached documentation to support the debt.

Attached are all invoices, statement of the account, and the signed agreement. By signing the contract, you have agreed to our client's terms and conditions, therefore, the total balance of $7,061.16 is rightfully owed. If you did not agree to our client's terms and conditions, you should not have signed the contract.

As discussed, it is your responsibility to ensure you pay our client on time, it is not our client's responsibility to chase you for a bill that is owed to them. You would have been fully aware that a service was provided, therefore, you should have contacted our client to arrange payment.

Upon a review with my legal director the total amount for $7,061.16 must be paid by Friday 13th February 2026 by 5pm.

If payment is not issued, then I have instructions from our client to proceed with further action. In addition to the impending legal action that will be taken, notification of this debt is due to be issued to an Internationally recognised debt registering database.
