Good Afternoon Andy,

Thank you for your email regarding the above claim. I have noted responses to the queries raised as follows:

- Kitchen worktops: Scope lists laminate, but they are a mix of solid wood and granite – removal of the worktops are required to aid drying works, however the worktops should be retained for refitting. If the worktops are unavoidably damaged during removal, we will consider replacement separately. I will make further enquiries with the surveyor who initially visited and the contractor to confirm that the original worktop was solid wood and granite, so we may update our file

- Utility room worktop: Also granite, not laminate – as per notes above

- Everhot cooker and extractor hood: Need to be included for removal and protection – I have enclosed the unpriced schedule from the network contractor for the proposed strip out. The scope allows 8 hours labour to disconnect the cooker. If you wish to obtain a quote for the specialist removal and storage of the cooker, I can review this further.

- Cloakroom basin: Wall-mounted, not pedestal as listed – The scope was prepared using pre-agreed rates, therefore each line item does set phrasing. I apologise that the wording does not reflect a wall mounted basin, however I would anticipate the cost for removal would be similar

- Stair carpet: Needs to be included for removal following flooding" – the damaged carpet falls under the cntents claim, which is why this does not appear on the enclosed scope for strip out works, as the contractors would deal with the buildings damage only. Please can you provide an estimate for the removal and replacement of the carpet on a like for like basis, so I may consider this aspect further

- The attached schedule of works allows for strip out of the lower wall plaster up to 1 m in height

With regards to the damaged contents, I have received the following list from BioResponse, for the contents deemed beyond economical repair whilst they were at your home. BioResponse have informed me that further items which were removed for further assessment, may be deemed beyond economical repair, therefore this list may change once BioResponse have assessed all items in storage:

- 1x motorised golf buggy

- 2x rugs

- 1x curtains

- 2x non slip under rugs

- 1x majority sound bar

- 11x photo frames

I hope the above is of assistance.

Kind regards,

Lizzie
